The wood tones shown here are to be used as a selection guide. Even though great care has been taken to ensure accurate color representation, some variation between this printed piece and the actual wood product may occur. Final color selection should be made after viewing actual wood samples.

The wood tones shown reflect a typical color and grain pattern for each species and stain combinations. However, some variation is unavoidable due to wood's inherent diversity of color, grain and texture. This is especially true in the natural wood tones.

These stains are species specific. Before selecting colors, be sure the product you're chosen is available in your selected wood species. Refer to our price list for availability.
